The Superior School for Public Prosecutors in the State of Ceará is proud to present the first semester of 2018 edition of our Academic Journal, which contains a designated area for promotion of juridical articles developing an academic debate about relevant themes from Social and Juridical Sciences.

Of the multitude of articles received for this volume, there was selected a wide range of contributions, which we believe will be of great utility not only for the public debate but also for deeper academic studies.

The effect of this is that the reader of this edition will have the opportunity to enjoy analysis of themes like prison regimes, execution of sentence after juridical conviction in the second level, legal adoption and the Statue of Children and Adolescences, inter-institutional collaboration between operators in the juridical system and the psychological profession, initial proofs in crimes connected to bidding for public projects, model for actions in demand for the intelligence sector, precautionary imprisonment of women and the Interamerican System for Human Rights, administrative morality in the prevention and repression of corruption, the role of the Federal States in the protection of the environment, the debate about detachment of the magistrate from the request for acquittal of the accused formulated by the Public Prosecution and the regulative power of the National Council of Public Prosecutors.

Like in previous editions, we received international academic contributions, and in this edition we selected juridical articles provided by authors from Cuba, Nigeria and Uganda treating pertinent themes of significant interest, like the protection of children and adolescent victims of violence, the act of cybercrimes in Nigeria in 2015, the prevention of torture and the performance of the Public Prosecution.

We remind our readers that our Journal exists in both electronic and printed versions in order to provide the best possible dynamic and accessibility with the purpose of democratizing knowledge.

We hope that the articles published in this edition will translate into contribution and acquisition of new knowledge and legal reflections, as well as an invitation to submit articles in the editions to come.
