

Presentation

We are presenting the second semester of 2018 edition of the Academic Journal of the Public Ministry and have the great satisfaction to receive a record number of contributions.

This channel of interlocution focuses on the functioning of the Public Ministry and opens space for a dialog of ideas that produces knowledge of approaches, theories and practices.

As in earlier volumes, we have international academic contributions, and in this edition, we selected juridical articles from authors from Argentina, Uganda, Nigeria, Pakistan, Hungary and the Democratic Republic of Congo. Let us also remind you that, in order to democratize access and content, our Journal exists both in a printed and an electronic version.

Our aim is that the Journal can contribute to the dissemination of knowledge, help us break limits and be a space of excellence for the exchange of reflections and experiences. Thus, we are grateful to all the writers who have made this Journal so great with their studies and researches.

To the honorable reader: we look forward to your contribution to the upcoming issues.

Enjoy!
